Financial Aid Tuition Deferrals

Background

[illegible] payable at the time of registration. Payment may be deferred, however, if the student is expected to receive some form of financial aid. For example, a deferral may be considered when all the necessary financial aid papers are on file but the student is experiencing some delay in the matriculation process.

This statement sets forth guidelines for determining the appropriate type(s) of financial aid against which a tuition deferral may be offered.

Further information may be found in the S.C.C.C. Financial Aid Procedures Manual and the College Catalog.

Policy

For eligible students, consider the various financial aid programs in accordance with the following order and criteria. The parents' federal tax returns (or student's, if claiming independent status) are needed for each.
